The Time of Your Life

Eventful Times

St. Clair High School is a building full of energy, its corridors providing more than just a place to be pushed around by mobs of people between classes. They provide some of the most memorable events of the year; such as Homecoming, the Haunted House and Winterfest competitions. These fun-filled events throughout the year give students a chance to dress up or down; to look their best, and at times, their worst.

As a school in constant motion, many times students find themselves at school events very distant from our hallowed halls. East China Stadium played host to many excellent events during Homecoming, St. Clair Middle School became a second home to students involved in theater and various exotic locations throughout the world entertained many spring-breakers.

fish out of water...

Lunchtime tunes...

Jeremy Londeau and Melissa Watko, the undisputed winners of first lunch karaoke, sing on stage during homecoming.

problems with rice...

Doug Werder is reprimanded by Adam May during lunch activities. Doug promised he would never throw rice again.

powder pumped...

After the unusually rough Powder Puff football game, junior Melissa Jerry is still a good sport to senior friend Jenny Schulte.

1999 material girl...

Woah Miss Schwehofer! Sporting her new and improved shoulders, as well as the rest of her new look, Miss Schwehofer tries to be "all that" for the senior class at the Homecoming Pep Assembly.

"all that..."

Mr. Rutledge proved to SCHS students that he really is "all that" at the Homecoming Pep Assembly this year. Crystal Kerzykowski and John Seals helped Mr. Rutledge make the winning wardrobe change.

the chain gang...

Judd Herzer, Brant Herzer, and Thomas McCartan enjoyed keeping the girls' first downs accurate at Powder Puff. Their careful measurements ensured a victory for the seniors, who won quite easily.

the uptown girls...

Senior class cheerleaders take a break from the demanding life of a cheerleader. The antics of both the junior and senior "cheer boys" entertained crowds between breaks in Powder Puff action on the field.

sPlish sPlash...

Sarah Strach takes a break from doing laps in sixth hour team sports swimming. This class was offered for the first time during the 98-99 school year and taught by Mrs. Lucht.

your perspective...

Creating a perspective piece for her art class is Heidi Bremmer, happy to be out of the tiny art room. Students were assigned to make 3D drawings from a favorite place in town or a view down the hall.

cedar world order...

Chad Muldermans is only moments away from experiencing the full wrath of Mr. Cedar's halloween costume. He was the only history teacher in the building to capitalize on the NWO for the holiday.

all fun and games...

Members of Mrs. Beeker's Parent/Child Development class relieve some stress with the parachute.

Class Time

Students know to start running through the hallways when Mr. Rose booms "five seconds, four, three, two, one" as the bell sounds. This is just one of the many routines that take place on school time at SCHS. Among others are the locker gangs who never seem to do their homework without a little help, the mad dash down Clinton Ave. both during lunch and after school, and those students who wait patiently for the free day in Calculus that will never come.

Whether our time between bells finds us in the band room singing Christmas carols, or in halls experiencing the empathy belly, the academic offerings at St. Clair High continue to enrich our lives.

skilled craftsman...

Becca Funkhauser works hard in Mrs. Cedar's applied science carving a pumpkin for the NHS Haunted House.

gauss the great...

Rob Hamilton shows his affection for the mathematician Gauss. The statues call Mrs. Shaffer's room home.

miLk is yummy...

Preparing to make Spooky Salsbury Steak for Halloween is TJ Brinker, as "Chef" from South Park.

perfect form...

Heather Blake and Melonie Bird perform with their flags for the color guard section of the band.

Hang Time

Many people in the halls would cite their friends as one of the reasons life at SCHS is so enjoyable. They are, after all, the people we can all turn to for that extra helping hand, a funny note during a boring class, or their valued advice.

But life wasn't always so well defined. When many of us took to the halls during our Freshman year, we'd quickly step away from the intimidating seniors, and seek shelter in a classroom. As the years quickly passed, people changed, friends changed, permits turned into licenses, cheese wagons turned into parking passes (hopefully), and we found ourselves yearning for that hallway to college, having grown tired of the high school classroom.

Coming up Next...

Anxiously looking over the homecoming parade, Jackie Sargent and Mr. Rose give the channel six float by float.

Spaced out...

Proud of their alien prize packages, Laine Fraley and Amber Mareski show off their space ship building prizes.

Three amigos...

Sporting their class color for homecoming week are freshmen Emily Stockwell, Katie Flemming, and Jason Nieman.

Friend of the Law....

Junior Brandon Avila pauses for a moment to chat with Officer Mahaffy, St. Clair Schools D.A.R.E. officer.

HITCHIN a ride...

Enjoying the ride down River Road are Memo Vallejo and Dino Ninku during the Homecoming Parade. Memo and Dino were two of the six exchange students that help enhance life at St. Clair High.

FALL CLEANING...

Brian Psciuk and John Sanchez take a break from cleaning up the baseball fields. This annual activity of spreading sand is done by both the softball and baseball teams and helps keep the field in good condition.

GATHERED to gawk...

"They (Jeremy Londeau and Melissa Watko) were so good! I couldn't believe how well he kept up with that song. He has a lot of talent."

- Makenzie Malane '99

FLOAT BUDDIES...

Patrice Seibel, Laine Swierkosz, and Sandy Marchlewski take a break from their float building activities. The Freshman float won first place this year, helping them to also capture the title of most spirited class.

doomed king...

Watch out Brandon Rossow, Tom Demeulenaere is out to get you! The two performed this same kingly scene over fifty times at the National Honor Society Haunted House held in October.

paris in the making...

As Homecoming draws near, Jim Topel prepares one of the shop paintings that covered the bleachers. Student council members spent many hours at Cassani's barn getting ready for the big night.

tree topper...

Exploring the fall trees in the front yard, Jenny Schulte collects leaves during her TA hour to make a bulliten board for Miss Jones. Being a TA is one of the many priviledges earned by seniors.

4th HOUR SHOPPING...

Lori Sanders, Sarah Armstrong, and Armen Hratchian try on some faded fashions while going through clothing drive articles.

Planning Time

Somewhere between the sound of an alarm clock and the struggle to stay awake for that last page of homework, students at SCHS found the time to sell candy at the school store, decorate for a dance, or plan layouts for the newspaper or yearbook. There are numerous organizations for students to get involved with at SCHS, all of which help teach valuable lessons in life such as leadership skills, managing a business, or helping out those less fortunate.

The hard work of these students paid off as they organized events that benefited the community, staff, or just plain offer an interruption to the daily grind here at St. Clair High School.

SPIRITED GRUB...

Alana Schweihofer, Bobbi Porter, and Christina Mansell ensure organization at the Homecoming Tailgate.

DANCIN' FEET...

At the first dance of the year organized by yearbook, SCHS students enjoy tunes and a Varsity Football victory.

SUBURBAN OF GOLD...

Laying in the pile of items he filled his truck with, Brandon Hill enjoys participating in the charity drive.

DINNER'S READY...

Members of the "You Can't Take it With You" cast select from the usual break time entrees

Game Time

The crunch of a tackle, a splash into the pool, a crack of the bat, and the huffing of a runner all play large roles in life at SCHS. The daily academic ritual often finds itself sandwiched between early morning conditioning and late night practices, making a movie day the perfect time for a cat nap. These awkward hours are a direct result of eight different teams all trying to snatch up precious gym time, in a schedule that changes daily. The thankful swim team, track, cross country, and golf team members did not have to deal with these scheduling conflicts, and found themselves exempt from problems associated with the buckling of the gym floor early in the year. All of these precarious practices paid off though, St. Clair sports are enjoying wins in their climb through divisions.

The Cross Country team enjoys a few moments in the leaves, while Coach Mareski helps to bury them further. Excellent fall weather produced beautiful leaves and optimum running conditions for most meets.

CLASS OF '02

TAKES HOME SPIRIT AWARD

The tradition continued among St. Clair High School students during the 1998 Homecoming Week. Fans enjoyed hot chocolate and shared blankets at the annual Powder Puff game and the always exuberant Homecoming football game. Members of our town gathered on a cold and windy October afternoon at the plaza to observe the parade which featured members of the court, sports teams, the marching band, and many local youth organizations.

Friday afternoon points were tallied to see which class had the most spirit throughout the week. The results were announced at the school pep assembly on Friday afternoon. Spirit point opportunities ranged from games and contests to teachers cutting loose and finally finding some style. These events and activities helped build the anticipation for the weekend's big game and dance. This pep assembly is always a favorite during the Homecoming week.

During the week, students had many opportunities to get involved in showing their school spirit. Students were able to sport pins, tattoos, hearts, bead necklaces, and even carry around oriental fans on specific days. Friday was class color day. Every class had a specific color to wear. A sophomore girl stated, "Color day was my favorite day because I liked wearing my cool green lipstick." Lunch-time activities took place which added excitement to the lunch hours. On Wednesday morning each float was brought to the high school for all to view. Voting took place early Wednesday morning by an unknown panel of judges.

When Friday night's football game rolled around, the announcement came: the freshmen class had taken all! Their float grabbed first place leaving the seniors in the dust. Winning the float contest enabled the class of 2002 to become the first ever freshman class to become overall champions of Homecoming Week.

ON the catwalk....

The town plaza was transformed into the streets of Paris with help from Jenny Schulte. Jenny acted out the part of a runway model.

Looking good...

Strutting his best look yet, Mr. Rutledge enjoys the attention of his new and profound look at the pep assembly. Rutledge was a guest on "Johnny Springer" and had been shot down by fellow teachers about his new wardrobe. Rutledge ended the assembly by instigating a brawl between fellow teachers and himself.

During the pep assembly, a game of musical chairs led to competition between Sarah Bond and Kevin Healey. Sarah and Kevin were the final two contestants to make it to the final round of musical chairs.

Seniors Brant Herzer and Sarah Armstrong were crowned King and Queen during half-time of the varsity football game.

Mr. Warner as Johnny Springer drills his guest teachers with the question of the day, "So why do you think you are all that?"

quarterback sneak...

Fixing her attention down field, Q.B., Melissa Jerry, rushes for junior yardage. Senior defenseman, Missy Askew, goes for the sack while Becky Fraley comes from behind to block. The defensive team for the seniors held the juniors for the entire game making it impossible for them to gain yardage or score points. Offense for the juniors was well thought out, but not enough for a junior victory.

VICTORY

TRADITION UPHELD
BY SENIORS

Powder Puff is something that every junior and senior girl looks forward to during Homecoming. It is a game where the roles of football are reversed, meaning, the guys become the cheerleaders and the girls become the players. This year seniors went on to kick the juniors right out of East China Stadium with a score of 21-0. The competition started well before the game this year as practical jokes were traded back and forth between the two groups and cars, along with faces, were painted to get the girls pumped up for the big game. On the field, both teams were looking for the win, but the seniors, who already had a year of experience, told the juniors who the head of the school was.

The seniors were coached by Mr. Rose and only meet twice to practice for the game. They had several plays worked out to guarantee a big "W". Many of the plays were used last year against the class of 1998, but just wasn't enough. This year however, the seniors were going for the gold and there was no stopping them.

The class of 2000 was coached by Ms. Famiano, Mrs. Osterland, Ms. Simmons, and Mrs. LaClear. The juniors worked from a total of four plays during the game. Their quarterbacks were Melissa Jerry and Becky Fraley. The juniors played a good game, but it just wasn't enough to beat the seniors.

Powder Puff is a Homecoming spirit game, but got a little rough this year. Fights broke out on the field and names were shouted back and forth. Even the cheerleaders got into it when they ran at each other on the field and broke out into a friendly fight.

All in all, Powder Puff was a huge success. Friends reunited after the game and all was forgotten as the players and spectators abandoned the stadium on October 3, 1998.

"I am glad that I played in Powder Puff. The game was fun and a good experience."

- Teri Buzzard '00

"Winning the Powder Puff game was a great way to begin our last year."

- Robyn Browning '99

"Despite some pre game rivalry, the game was a fun experience."

- Darcee Askew '99

"I hated it, the seniors beat me up!"

- Melissa Jerry '00

"The game was a lot rougher than I expected it to be."

- Jenny Wireman '00

keeping tradition...

The senior class of 1999 ruled the field and celebrated their victory over the junior class of 2000 with a score of 21-0. The seniors have dominated this Homecoming event for the past two years and renewed the tradition that the seniors have built to last for many years to come.

RUNNING game...

Rachael Skotzke, playing the running back position, runs the ball through an open field. The juniors had four plays to choose from which could have lead to their zero points on the board.

calling a truce...

Following a midfield fight, the senior and junior cheerleaders forgive each other and show their Powder Puff spirit.

A ROUND

THE WORLD IN 180 MINUTES

Have you ever imagined traveling around the world in 180 minutes? The efforts of SCHS student council made it happen this year in our own cafeteria and gym. Once decorating was complete, dancers were able to walk through the streets of Paris, view the Eiffel Tower, and have a sit down meal in a Roman Cafe.

The enjoyable end result, however, was the product of hundreds of hours of planning from various committees on student council. Members of Julie Cassani's committee met every weekend to paint the streets of Paris on cardboard rolls that covered the bleachers in the gym. "I love my committee! They got everything done they needed to every single weekend," an ecstatic Julie commented.

While student council members were becoming light-headed as a result of blowing up gigantic balloons in the gym on Saturday morning, hundreds of other students were busy getting ready for the big night. Cars were being washed, hair was being sprayed, nails were being filed and painted, and excitement was running high. Most everyone had to endure the endless picture taking by shutter-happy parents before they could finally get on their way to their favorite restaurant for a great dinner.

Students arrived at school for their magical "trip" around the world in polished limousines, freshly washed and waxed cars, and several freshmen piled out of Mom's mini-van.

When passports expired at eleven o'clock and Mr. Rose began shuffling people out with old decorations in hand, everyone agreed that it was the best trip they ever went on.

HAUNTED HOUSE FACTS...

HAUNTING

NHS GIVES SCHS A MORE
FRIGHTENING LOOK

Along with pumpkins, ghosts, and trick-or-treating, Halloween leads the way for the annual National Honor Society haunted house. The N.H.S. members slave to transform a barren school hallway into a terrifying haunted castle. The job took members around eleven hours to construct and several more at meetings planning every detail. The successful event raised $1,068 from admission and games.

When people entered the front doors of the school, they were greeted by their tour guides, senior Bill Senavaitis and senior Keith Philliben. They proceeded to the throne room down the senior hall where junior Brandon Rossow sat perched in his kings throne with his sword at hand. Next came the torture room, a dungeon for unruly local citizens. The wizard's room was in the freshman hallway, preceeding to the most frightening room of all, the courtyard. The courtyard had many people jumping out of leaves in a very dark room with only a strobe light. The final stop was the ball room, where a costume ball was held.

Ms. Schweihofer, N.H.S. advisor, stated, "Once the time comes closer for the haunted house to open, everyone 'gels' together to make it a success. The kids enjoyed creating a scary atmosphere." She also said that the game room was a huge success. In future years, she hopes to have two haunted houses. One would be designed in a lower toned atmosphere, for elementry and some middle school students. Another haunted house would be directed toward high school students. It would be much more scary to attract the older patrons who would not normally visit the current haunted house.

ON DISPLAY AT THE FESTIVAL OF THE ARTS

The 1999 fourth annual Festival of the Arts, drew over two hundred visitors. Adults, parents, and siblings came to enjoy the artwork and performances from students in art, band, choir, and the Theater Troupe. Over fifteen presentations were performed for the audience such as vocal and instrument solos, drama excerpts, and volunteer artists. Six hundred pieces and sculptures were also available for viewing. Sketches, oil paintings, self-portraits, vases, assorted sculptures, and life-size paintings were on display throughout the halls of SCHS.

Freshman Art I student, Danielle Solgot, had several pieces of art at the festival. She displayed a self-portrait, a sketch from her sketchbook, and a pointillism. "I felt very positive about the festival. It went very well and was a great idea. I think everything was presented very well," Danielle commented regarding the Festival of the Arts.

Art II student Valerie Kelly said, "I thought the Festival of the Arts was inspiring and made me want to draw, there were a lot of good drawings." Valerie said she had several favorite presentations including piano solos, pottery, and lamps. She displayed two pieces, a sketchbook drawing and a clay flower.

Carmen Spitale is a sophomore and is in Art II, she performed a piano solo and also exhibited other artwork. "I think it was awesome that we finally had something for the creative arts. This gives us some exposure, but we still need more. Hopefully next year we will have a better turnout," she said. Carmen also suggested that the school needs to spend more time and money on the art program and put bigger emphasis on the creative arts.

New to this festival were refreshments and a larger quantity of artwork. Unfortunately the improvements did not bring in as many people as anticipated. Mrs. Whisman was in charge of the festival and said, "two years ago we had the most attendees. That was due in part to the entire band and choir performances." In the future she hopes to improve the turnout.

WINTERFEST HAS SCHS STUDENTS GOING TROPICAL

"Welcome to the jungle, we've got fun and games." That is exactly what St. Clair High was filled with during Winterfest 1999... fun and games. Student Council went out of their way to get the student body involved in all of the special activities. Unlike last year, the school was decorated for the entire week and items such as tattoos, key chains, and balloon hats were passed out each morning as students filed into the building.

Due to mid-winter break, Winterfest was cut down to a four day week. The beginning of the week got little participation, but Student Council worked hard, and by the end of the week, most of the student body was involved. Activities included a flashback to the 70's and students performing their best Saturday Night Live impressions.

On Thursday, students received hand-made balloon hats to keep cool in the jungle summer heat. The students were challenged to keep the balloons inflated and get three Varsity athletes to sign them. At the end of the day, the first 100 people to turn their balloon in got a miniature Cat in the Hat hat.

The final day of Winterfest was the traditional "Saints Spirit Day". The student body recieved "Hoop It Up" tattoos to get the students fired up for the game against Marysville. During the assembly, the Winterfest court was announced and games of tug of war, tropical bowling, banana relay race, and a limbo contest were held. At the end of the assembly, spirit points were tallied, and for the second year in a row, the freshman class earned the title of "Most Spirited Class."

VACATION

MEMORIES THAT WILL LAST A LIFE TIME

Whether it was going over 1080 miles down south with friends, traveling half way across the world to Spain, playing baseball in Columbus, or staying home in St. Clair, spring break was a very anticipated week. Excited voices filled SCHS the week before spring break as students exchanged information on their destination.

Spring break had the seniors buzzing in the hallways and classrooms as they counted down the days until their departure two months in advance. This year's destination: Panama City Beach, Florida. A week in the sun with no rules to live by and no parents to enforce them was on the minds of all seniors as they packed their bags. There was plenty to do on the beaches of Florida such as snorkel, go parasailing, and soak up the sun's rays. If kids were tired of the beach scene they could be walking up and down the ten mile strip. "It was a great time, I got to know other people in my class better," said senior Monica Boychuk. As the week came to a close, seniors stuffed souvenirs as well as sandy memories into their luggage and headed home.

The farthest destination traveled from St. Clair was Spain. This trip was taken by the Spanish III students with Ms. Simmons and Ms. Osterland. During their travels they explored Madrid, Seville, and made a day trip over to Morocco, Africa. While overseas their adventures included going through a grass maze, trying new cuisine, dinner on the Mediterranean Sea, and rare encounters with wild animals. "Going to Spain was definatly one of the best trips that I have gone on. I would do anything to go back!" commented junior Jenni Pauly.

The Varsity Baseball was not the only group that left the high school. The team packed their bags and headed to Columbus, Ohio to play games and get ready for the upcoming season. "Going down to Columbus was a lot of fun for our team, besides getting better in the sport, we also got a chance to bond individually," senior Josh Gomola stated. While many would think that this trip would be all business, the players had a lot of free time and even went to see an Ohio State baseball game.

FLYING

THE MUSICAL BEGINS ANEW
WITH FLYING CHARACTERS

The very popular Broadway musical Peter Pan, was brought to St. Clair, courtesy of the Theater Troupe. The show was just as successful as the others, nearly selling out their first two performances, and performing three plays for elementary students in the morning and afternoon. A total of six thousand people attended the six performances. Tickets, costing eight and ten dollars each, raised thirteen thousand dollars necessary to help pay off the costly flying effects. A medley of sixty-two performers, ten technical workers, and sixteen orchestra members gave the show a high school touch.

When Peter Pan first arrives at the Darling residence, the eldest child Wendy, played by Valerie Kaiser, spots him. Peter Pan, Julie Smelser, asks if Wendy would come to Neverland to be the mother of the Lost Boys. She quickly agrees, and requests that her brothers John, played by Jim Toepel, and Michael, played by Doug Werder, come as well. He accepts, and they fly to Neverland.

After a lifetime of fueding, Tiger Lily, the Indians, Peter Pan, and the Lost Boys, have now come to a treaty. While the Indians are spending the night at the Lost Boys' underground home, they are kidnapped by the pirates, and taken aboard the ship and held hostage. Fortunately, they escape because of Peter's wit. After an exciting adventure, Wendy decides that they must go home, leaving behind their newly found friends.

On the night of their arrival back at home, Mrs. Darling, Patrice Seibel, fears that her children will not come back. As soon as she announces her fears, her children glide into the room, and the family is happily reunited.

As the play draws to a close, you are given a glimpse of the Darling nursery twenty years later. Unexpectedily, Peter flies in and asks Wendy to come back to Neverland as she promised, but she is to old to go to a place where nobody grows up. Her daughter Jane, Danielle Solgot, goes in her place to Neverland as the new mother to the Lost Boys.

THEATER TROUPE BREAKS A LEG WITH TWO SUCCESSFUL PLAYS

Two comedies began and closed the 1999 Theater Troupe season. "You Can't Take It With You," performed in December, was the first performance. In March, William Shakespeare's "A Midsummer's Night Dream" humorously ended the year. Both plays were very victorious, drawing in over 1,500 attendees, and reaching a combined admission sales of $6,000.

The plot of "You Can't Take It With You" shows how Tony Kirby, Jon Seals, brings his family to dine at his girlfriends house. Unfortunately they arrive on the wrong evening. The Kirby family was exposed to the 'normal' behaviors of the Sycamore family, which his girlfriend was attempting to hide before their visit. Weird happenings include a printing press set up in the parlor, fireworks being manufactured and tested in the basement, and a grandfather who did not believe in paying taxes. The shock possessed by the Kirbys, who are wealthy and always poised, of the life of the Sycamores, shows Alice that marriage with Tony is out of the question. Tony, who puts their family differences aside, still pursues a marriage with Alice. She eventually realizes that Tony does not care about the differences of their families and his parents' opinions do not have any significance to him. Alice happily agrees to get married, and they do.

The action of "A Midsummer's Night Dream" takes place between the announcement of Theseus, Adam May, and Hippolyta, Michelle Koehn's, marriage and celebration. With the lovers, Shakespeare creates viewpoints of balance between them. Demetrius, Jon Seals, is young, and has not yet learned to be satisfied with what he has. Demetrius' previous relationship was with Helena, Arielle Fenton, and while he thinks he has moved on to Hermia, Valerie Kaiser, Helena has different plans. She believes she has found her soul mate and true love and is not about to let him go. On the other hand, Hermia is of different sorts. Hermia is solid, like Helena is tender and affectionate. She wants Lysander, John Sayers, and he wants her too. Her father, who legally has control of her, says no. Lysander, who is not as headstrong as Hermia, is committed to his love for her. Together they create a plan for the sake of their love. As the play moves from day to night, another pair of lovers emerge. Fairies Titania, Audrey Ritter, and Oberon, Jim Toepel, quarrel over suspected infidelity. Titania strongly believes that the world is not in harmony when men and women do not get along. A play is presented to the couples by characters that are to perform a play for Hippolyta and Theseus. The play depicts the challenges and altercations of love.

The cast's favorite act in "You Can't Take It With You," was Act Two. Act One came in second, and Act Three was last.

The favorite character of everyone involved in "You Can't Take It With You", was Mr. DePinna. Rheba and the Grand Duchess were a close second.

I thought the funniest play was _____.

The cast's favorite scene in "A Midsummer Nights Dream" was the love scene by Thisbe and Pyramis in front of Duke.

PROM A NIGHT FULL OF MAGICAL MEMORIES

It was a night filled with glamor and excitement. Prom is the one event that many juniors and seniors look forward to at the end of the year. Crystal Gardens was rockin' on May 1, 1999, as students arrived looking like a million dollars and ready to dance the night away.

"I went to prom with a bunch of my friends this year. I had a lot of fun and the food was a lot better this year."

Last minute RUSH...

Freshman English students, Lindsay Boulier and Dayna Leverence put the finishing touches on their portfolios the morning they are due.

IN SCHOOL BEFORE SUNRISE

Before the early morning bell rings many students and teachers are already at SCHS preparing for the day's activities, while others are catching up on work that they put off until the last minute.

Many organizations use the morning hours for meetings, and sports teams take advantage of the empty gym in the morning for grueling practices. This year's basketball team had conditioning in the morning for two weeks. Senior Mike Boullard commented, "It was extremely hard getting up at 5:00 am every morning for conditioning and then having to go to class."

The yearbook staff also comes in before school to get ahead on pages. Junior Kelly Langmesser said, "The morning is the only time I can come in because after school I have to work."

Many students come in early to finish homework that they did not get to the night before. They sit by their lockers or in the cafeteria to work. Others just come in to socialize and catch up on the latest gossip. Many students head for the cafeteria to talk with friends and listen to the music played by student council.

No matter how early you arrive at SCHS, you will always find students or teachers already hard at work. You may also find students relaxing and catching up on news before the busy school day begins.

EYES OPEN AND HEADS UP

It's 7:40a.m. and the first bell has just rung. All that can be seen is people scrambling to get their books so they can make it to first hour on time. Teachers seem to find that first hour is the hardest time to get any response out of their students.

English teacher Mr. Malliwitz takes a different approach to waking up his sleepy first hour. He runs around shaking students and screaming at them to liven things up. "Most of the time it is hilarious watching him run around the class," commented senior Jeff Browne.

If tech students aren't awake by second hour they might lose a finger or two. Mr. McIntosh's classes have used some very dangerous tools to build their houses and cars. The technology department also teaches the basics of computer programing.

The talented St. Clair Singers also meet first hour. First thing in the morning is a hard time to sing because their vocal cords haven't warmed up yet. Ms. Zydek considers that no excuse stating, "They still have to sing at their best to be ready for their concerts."

Teachers do their best to keep us lively and awake early in the morning, but we have to give them credit instead of grief because it is a tough job.

WORKING OFF THE DROWSINESS

While most students are just starting to wake up, Mrs. Beeker's class is getting ready for a party, art class is molding clay, and choir is belting out a new tune.

Mrs. Beeker's parent child class will surely wipe away those morning blues. There are days where you can find screaming toddlers running around or you might find the class at the hospital. No matter what activity it is, learning about childbirth and children can be pretty exciting and even overwhelming.

Choir starts out by warming up their vocal cords. After their warm up it is time to perfect their songs to get them in concert form. These talented students sing right up to the bell, they need all the time they can get because of the large class.

Art II students begin molding clay or drawing self portraits as soon as they walk in the door. "It takes a lot of time to create a masterpiece," explains junior Sarah Galos. If you wander into this class you might find people working on many different projects but everyone keeps busy.

Most students seem to agree that second hour goes by the slowest, but we all have to get through to reach our favorite part of the day, the end!

HUNGER PAINS KICK IN

The bell rings to announce the beginning of third hour and stomachs growl, announcing the onset of hunger. With lunch nearing, teachers find it harder and harder to keep students on track.

Mr. Clutts does not let hunger stop him, his students take notes until their hands are sore. Even class discussion goes on until the bell rings and students rush out the door. "Social Studies is essential because it teaches students about how our government runs," stated Mr. Clutts.

Spanish IV students get to venture to Eddy Elementary for third hour to help out students from Mexico. "I get a good feeling from helping these kids because I am helping make their life easier," said senior Sarah Armstrong.

If you happen to visit Mrs. Clyne's third hour you might not understand anyone. Her french IV students are required to speak French until the bell rings. Or you might catch them playing the fly swatter game, which seems to be the students favorite activity.

TIME TO BREAK AWAY

For some, lunch is time to take a break, eat, and chat with friends. For others it is time to catch up on homework or go to organizational meetings. This year SCHS went back to split lunches as compared to last year's A and B lunches. It seems that most people liked last year's lunch period better. Many students complain that split lunches separate them from their friends. Students with second lunch feel that it is too late in the day and by the time third hour rolls around they are starving. "My stomach is not growling, but everyone else's is and I can't concentrate over the noise," said sophomore Steven Blake.

Some students like split lunches because the cafeteria is less crowded, creating more room to sit at tables and not on the heaters or the stage. Upperclassmen like it because they are separated from the lowerclassmen except for the few freshmen in first lunch.

Many students use lunch to finish up homework before afternoon classes. It is also a way to avoid doing homework at night when most students are extremely busy.

Other students even go home to eat lunch, it is the perfect opportunity to get away from campus. No matter what you do at lunch, it is a relief from class.

Sophomores Kevin Burns, Matt Schwieger, Brian Kronner, and Marjory Hool are enjoying the convenience of the cafeteria. They think it is too hard to walk to Little Caesars.

HUNGRY ANYONE...

Second lunch seems to be the most crowded of the two, but these students don't seem to mind, they gather to chow down and socialize about the day.

WHAT DO SCHS STUDENTS THINK ABOUT SPLIT LUNCHES?

"I like it better than everyone having one lunch because the cafeteria is less crowded."

-Amanda Fraley '00

"I don't mind split lunches because all of my friends are in the same lunch."

-Colleen Card '00

"Being a senior, I have first lunch so I don't mind split lunches. Plus I can leave campus and get away from the cafeteria food."

-Lisa Petrilla '99

"I hate it because I am stuck in first lunch with all of the older kids. I don't get to see most of my friends because they have second lunch."

-Scott Shine '02

"I totally hate it! You never get to see all of your friends. Most people don't really care how crowded it is because upper classmen can go out to lunch."

-Katie Metheny '01

"I think it is a bad idea. I don't get to see my friends and I can't leave campus because I didn't get a parking pass, which is a whole other issue."

-Steve Green '00

It's fourth hour and upperclassmen are staggering in from lunch while underclassmen are counting down the last minutes until they can cure their hunger and socialize with friends.

Health students are not distracted by hunger or they are disciplined by doing push-ups in front of the whole class. Throughout the year, health students have learned the dos and don'ts of drugs and alcohol and the ins and outs of the human body. To finish the semester, they pulled out CPR dolls to practice first aid and lifesaving skills.

Business students used many simulations this year to learn exactly how the business world is run and how tedious the work really is. Accounting class went through a 30 day accounting cycle to get a feel for what a real accountant does every day. Economics students made commercials to learn about the marketing aspect of the economic world.

Another very important part of business is computers. Multimedia computers and computer applications teach students basic computer programs. In the multimedia class, students got a chance to use digital cameras and scanners for elaborate presentations. With computers holding such a common place in our society, it is important that every student understands the basics of technology.

ONE HOUR AND COUNTING

Most students find the day goes faster if they get their hard classes such as math and science out of the way early in the day, but for some that is not possible. The student center is available to offer extra help in those tough classes.

The new addition of the student center has helped out many students this year. Teachers send students there to make up tests or finish homework. It is also a place to receive extra help in tough subjects such as science.

There is a wide range of science classes offered at SCHS, from biology to physics. Students can choose to just meet the credit requirements or they can excel if they plan on pursuing a career in science or medicine. With all the crazy formulas in chemistry class algebra is a good class prerequisite.

Math classes help out in many subjects such as accounting and chemistry. Two years are required at SCHS to graduate, with so many classes offered the requirement is easy to fill.

With math and science out of the way and the student center there for help the day goes by much quicker. Just one more hour to go and then it starts all over again.

ALL EYES ON THE CLOCK

The final minutes are being counted but students are still hard at work. Classes such as band and yearbook have to take advantage of every minute. Gym students have to push it to the max until the ten minute bell rings signaling relief.

Yearbook students use sixth hour to get the bulk of their work done, but production does not stop when the bell rings. Many hours are spent before and after school trying to meet approaching deadlines.

Band is another class that does not stop practice just because the school day is done. To prepare for concerts and festivals, band members missed classes and took time out of their summer vacation to practice. This requires very dedicated members that truly love music.

Students who decide to excel in gym have a passion for athletics. Freshmen are required to take gym and swimming, but after that, members of football and basketball can take team sports for extra practice. Lifetime sports is for students who love sports but may not be on a team.

Yearbook, band, and gym may seem like ideal classes for sixth hour but they are not as easy as they seem. These classes demand a love for the work and a lot of effort.

HITTING THE ROAD

When students get to high school they think that it will be the end of field trips for good, but at SCHS that is not necessarily true.

Art classes took their annual trip to the DIA. They also went to Macomb Community College to view some of their art work which was being displayed. Lit.Comp. 9 students went to the Masonic Temple to see short story plays that were read in class. Economics and Marketing classes went to the Palace of Auburn Hills to see the business side of the Palace's productions. Even life time sports took a field trip, the students went bowling downtown at the Voyageur.

Parent Child II went to Gearing Elementary about once a month. The students read to the first graders and helped them with numerous projects such as flowers for Mother's Day. Parent Child I took a trip to River District Hospital to learn about the delivery rooms.

The biggest field trip was taken by the Spanish classe. They travelled across the ocean to visit Spain. This was an educational trip, but the students still had time left for fun, they went on a safari in Africa.

Although most field trips are educational, students don't complain because they were able to escape the demands of SCHS for a least one day.

NIGHT LIFE BEGINS

The sound of relief rushes through the halls of SCHS as the bell rings announcing the end of the day. For most students and teachers the day is far from over. There are many things to be done, practices to attend, and jobs to go to.

Many students have after school jobs to support their car payments or they just like the feeling of money in their pocket. Senior Carissa Emerich replies, "I have no choice in the matter, my mom says I have to work." Once these busy students get home they have to make sure their homework is done before they can finally hit the sac.

Then, of course there are the students who lift weights and attend practices after school. Participating in sports leaves these students with little time for anything else, so while they wait for practice to start most athletes do their homework. After such long grueling practices the athletes are too tired to do anything else but sleep.

We must not forget the people that have enough time to go home relax and watch T.V. After such a long hectic day falling into a deep sleep is the easiest thing to do. Then the alarm goes off and the craziness starts all over again.

Imagine jumping at a wall and actually sticking there instead of falling down. That is exactly what Angela Malinaro, and many other seniors, did as they took a flying leap at the all night party.

Place your bets...

The Flamingo Club was filled with Black Jack, Craps, and a bar. "Even with three black Jack tables it was still hard to find a spot," commented Mike Callahan.

at the drive-in...

Relaxing at the drive-in, many students stopped to enjoy the showing of Grease.

micheLin babies...

Enjoying a warm spring day and showing their support for the girls' soccer team, sophomores Bryan Pauly and Paul Stockwell create their own front row seats at Solis field.

soccer fanatics...

This rowdy group of junior guys made their presence known at a boys' soccer game as they brought Saints spirit to Solis field.

i gotta CROW...

color of the day...

"It's so wierd! We always end up wearing the same colors!" said Patrice Saibel of Miss Jones' third hour. Having several people wearing the same color was an everyday occurance for these color-coded freshmen.

MORNING GANG...

The cafeteria became an increasingly popular hangout before school this year, especially on bagel days. This group of freshmen was one of many who hung out and "compared homework" in the cafeteria before first hour.

ORGANIZATIONS

OF ST. CLAIR HIGH 1999

"Time After Time..."

Let it snow...

After one of the many winter blizzards, members of the year-book staff take a rare time out. Staff shirts, section editors, and new textbooks helped them complete the book as a team this year.

yo' adrian...

On their trip to the national competition, BPOA members gathered where Rocky once stood, on the steps of the Philadelphia Art Museum.

BLOND beauty...

Doug Werder, Robyn Browning, and Thomas McCartan perform a scene from "A Midsummer's Night Dream."

fashion experts...

The student council senate entertained kids in the library for holiday babysitting. Besides dressing up, everyone there made noodle necklaces, ate happy meals, and struggled to "shoot for three" in the gym.

causing trouble...

At the State Conference, student council members enjoy dinner with Stu, one of the featured speakers. They later watched in horror as he knocked over an entire tray of dinner plates.

CHILD'S PLAY...

Sporting her trendy style, senior Bobbi Jo Porter shakes her pom-poms at Holiday Babysitting in the library.

SPEAKING UP...

Preparing for a Taebo class at the state conference, M. Dominick and S. VanPelt give last minute instructions to the class.

a step above the REST

Student Council is one of the most influential organizations at St. Clair High School. From the Homecoming pep assembly in October, to the Dream Run in May, this organization keeps busy throughout the school year.

"Student Council builds leadership, teamwork, and trust, which are characteristics that will enable its members to be successful after high school," states senior Josh Friederichs.

Junior Mary Louise Dominick states, "Being part of Student Council helps build my character for when I get out on my own. I truly feel that I will be more organized and better prepared for the real world as a result of my experiences on student council."

Council members spend many hours before, during, and after school putting together dances, competitions, spirit weeks, and charity events in order to boost the spirit of SCHS students, and to help others who are less fortunate. President Laura Birch explains, "It's a great feeling to know that the work you do helps others. From the clothing drives for the women's shelter to the Dream Run, which raises money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation, it's nice to know that our time and energy can make a difference in the lives of others."

Members of student council made a difference in the lives of nine hundred other council members from throughout the state as they served as official hosts of the 1999 State Conference. Sara Schwehofer and Lori Sanders were responsible for organizing the entire event. "I've never been so stressed in my life," stated Sanders, "But I've also never been quite as proud as I was of our council members for the tremendous job they did." Another year of hard work paid off as members brought home yet another MASC Award of Excellence from the conference.

reaching for the TOP

Business Professionals of America helps its members to learn about tomorrow's business world. This organization allows members to use their knowledge of certain career fields to compete at the regional, state and national levels. Other than competitions, our chapter of BPOA sponsored many events, including the Leukemia Type-A-Thon, a dance, and the annual fashion show themed "Over The Rainbow."

During school and after lunch, this organization prepares their members for the real world by allowing them to manage and be fully responsible for all aspects of the school store The Hallway Stop. "The school store is like a regular working business. We take inventory, sell our products, and check our profits all in The Hallway Stop," states president Scott Brown.

Their eye for style shined through at the annual fashion show. Searching for the latest fashions, the business students traveled to numerous stores to find the perfect casual wear the week prior to the big night. "I'm glad I have the opportunity to display the latest fashions to the whole school. This has always benefited our organization as well as given us a chance to enjoy each other and have a blast," explains fashion show director, Candice Lukasak.

The Leukemia Type-A-Thon was a special event where the members typed as many pages as they could for two hours. The pledges they raised amounted to over $350 for the fight against Leukemia.

Vice-president Justin Bul commented, "I plan on attending a business college next year, and with the help of BPOA, I have an advantage in my future endeavors in the business world."

Showing off a new dress for the BPOA fashion show, junior Rachel Harrison receives a roaring applause from the crowd while strutting her stuff down the runway.

standing proud...

As the evening comes to an end, seniors Missy Askew and Sarah DiGiusto stand proudly while accepting their awards for Financial Assistant at the Regional Conference.

WITH HONORS...

After weeks of preparation, many days after school, and a few hours during lunch, it was time for the big night. The fashion show was a wonderful accomplishment for all those who participated in the event.

All of the hard work paid off as the event pulled in a large crowd. At the end, flowers and cards were presented to the individuals who had the biggest role in the show, Mr. Mallwitz, Mrs. Derrow, Mrs. Hayden and Mrs. Walendzik.

one quick glance...

Pausing for a moment, Sarah Schwehofer looks to the crowd before continuing to take her place with the other members.

The long hours that the National Honor Society puts into their work makes this organization one of the most exclusive and fulfilling groups in our school. Students need to maintain a 3.4 grade point average for three consecutive semesters while attending St. Clair High School in order to be inducted.

The NHS organization goes beyond school activities and reaches out to the community. By participating in the Red Cross Blood Drive during school, students receive the chance to donate blood to this worthwhile project.

"This event has so much meaning to me. I am very happy with myself and our organization for going above and beyond the call of duty and giving our time to put together this event," explains senior vice president Jessica Homberg.

Every Halloween, NHS invites people of all ages to attend the Haunted House at SCHS. This is a time of laughter which scares and provides the community somewhere to be able to get together and enjoy a wonderful evening.

"Working on the Haunted House was one of my favorite events this year. It gave me a chance to see others enjoying what we worked so hard to create," comments senior Robyn Browning.

We look forward to the bright future that these young members of the NHS organization will supply. We hope that through the adult guidance from the NHS advisor these teens will continue to grow in leadership into the new millennium.

Leader of the pack...

Senior members of the National Honor Society begin the ceremony with the placing of candles. The candles symbolize the service, character, leadership, and scholarship, which creates the philosophy of NHS.

SOUND of music...

Juniors Sarah Priebe, and Kimberly Morris preform "Two Duets" by Mozart while the new inductees make their way down the center isle.

always a step AHEAD

Deadlines, proofreading, and extra long school days are common everyday occurrences in the yearbook room. Before school, at lunch, during class and after school are many of the times you will find this room buzzing with activity.

On an average day one can hear the click of the keyboard, "Why won't this thing print?", "Oops, I think the computer blew up", or "Who unplugged the zip drive?"

Even though it can be stressful at times, the lighthearted humor of the staff keeps many coming back for more. Several students have kept coming back for three years. They've watched the book grow and expand over the years. Going from 224 black and white pages to 248 pages with a full color section.

This year alone, the yearbook staff increased ad sales by $2,000, and book sales by 150 books. With a little extra organization and an experienced advisor, high goals have been met using teamwork and determination.

"Being part of the yearbook staff has been a great learning opportunity. I had no idea how much work went into this publication and it's fun to see the end product when the book arrives," comments staff member TerriLynn Wheeler.

Anticipation and anxiety sneak into the classroom as the end of the year arrives. Eager eyes await the proofs while final pages are completed and sent to Jostens for processing. Only a few short months and the final product will be within grasp.

Even so, there is still a lot to be accomplished before the book arrives. Many new deadlines, ad sale, and book sale goals need to be set, not to mention a plan to get some new computers for the staff to work on.

Overall, the year was successful and a lot of fun. Many memories will be etched in our memories for years to come as a result of this fantastic book.

showing with style

Equestrian is made up of a group of competitive individuals who rely on teamwork. It is because of this teamwork that these students can accomplish greater victories.

In equestrian, members compete in five different classes; showmanship, saddleseat, hunt seat, western jumping, and gymkhana. Each class uses different techniques to show an individual's unique style of riding.

Senior Margaret Hayden states, "I like riding horses. It helps me become better at showing, and I get to meet a lot of new people."

Competing on equestrian is a valuable experience for each member on the team. Heather Vermeersch says that her most valuable experience was learning how to be more, self sufficient. Vermeersch stated, "I had to prepare my horse and myself for the meet, get everything ready to go, then show my horse, and take care of my horse all on my own."

Great individuals and team unity has made equestrian an enjoyable experience for those involved. Equestrian is a successful organization where the students can participate in riding horses, a pastime which is greatly cherished by these individuals, while enjoying the company of other classmates.

The school newspaper "The Sentinel" is in its second year of publication. The newspaper allows the student body to voice their opinions about what is happening here at St. Clair High School.

Senior Adam May states, "Newspaper provides me with the essential tools to be a better writer."

Adam is not the only one who thinks this newspaper is an important asset. Senior Mike Sell also says, "The newspaper extends from the classroom to the community."

Each student at SCHS benefits from this organization. It gives reliable and accurate information, as well as a good look at student life.

Senior Maureen Carter comments, "It is a very fun learning experience. I enjoy being part of such an interesting organization."

Every month "The Sentinel" provides the school and the community with news regarding events, sports, and life here at St. Clair High School.

After its second year of existence "The Sentinel" is a powerful tool which relates to the students as well as the teachers.

moved up...

Normally a junior varsity player, sophomore Jennifer Oles moved up and played doubles in a match against Marysville.

It happens every season, new teams need to be formed with only so many positions played, not everyone is needed. That's where tryouts come in. Almost every team at SCHS has some form of tryouts. The cheerleaders have a mini clinic a few days before actual tryouts. The Basketball teams have a little more relaxed setting of a week of working out with each other. With a growing number of soccer hopefuls, tryouts we had this year. Junior Dustin Walker was relaxed about it, "I'm the only goalie, so I made the team no matter what." While others are relaxed at tryouts senior Terri Lynn Wheeler said "At times serious, with cheerleading you need to be" in the game...

After the actual tryouts ends whether you made it or not, the time can be even more nerve racking then the actual tryouts. Freshman Jesse Arnold just waits by where the results are going to be posted. "I just act as I always do, so I don't sound cocky or very upset."

With more and more athletic team's seasons over lapping, it seems there is always some kind of tryout going on in the school. That means there is a nervousness in the air, with the awaiting of the sheet of the players who made it. Yet in the end, tryouts are just part of being on a team, so they are worth it. To senior Megan Rose the best way to sum it up is "tryouts are fun!"

Senior Mike Zimmer and Frank Seilheimer watch the rest of the varsity basketball team under the net. The team had one part of their tryouts, scrimages. The other part is the conditioning for the season which puts the team in excellent shape for battle.

Let's fly...

Getting ready to "fly", an aspect of the sport introduced last year by Coach Jones, senior Megan Rose is boosted high into the air.

Warming up...

Senior Amy Pauly stretches out before performing. The team always stretches before practices and games to reduce the chance of a strain or pulled muscle while performing a cheer or stunt.

Round of applause...

High above the field, junior Gwen Glibert, senior Andrea Blythe and freshman Brandi Boudreau excite the crowd, "supported" by the team.

FLYING HIGH...

The only freshman on the team, Brandi Boudreau flies in a basket toss. Flying entertains the crowd and gets them excited and into the game.

Every student during high school takes at least one bus ride. Students on sports teams, however, spend a lot more time. They can spend anywhere from eight minutes to Marysville or five hours to a state final. The bus ride to an away game is a way to get pumped up for the game against the big rival, and plan their strategy for the game.

Some sport players listen to music while on the bus, while others try to do their homework. Sophomore cross-country runner Ashley Hubbarth tried to do her homework but "the bumps from the bus made it very difficult and my solar calculator refused to work so I could not do it."

"Bus rides are half the fun of going to a game. We bond as a team because we are on the bus so much," said junior cross country runner, Kelly Langmesser. Varsity senior tennis player Clara Berridge stated, "When you're on the bus for over two hours, it seems like an eternity."

Once on the bus for the ride home, some athletes rejoice over their recent victory while others try and get a few hours of sleep. "I try to sleep but it is hard with all of the noise," said senior swimmer Laura Birch.

However long you ride the "cheese wagon," popular knowledge is that they are a fun way to get to know your teammates.

"We had a great season. We had a big team that was hard to guard, which is why we blew so many teams out. We really used our strengths well."

-Jesse Arnold '02

▶ The freshman basketball team finished with a record of 16-3. They not only won a lot of games, but they rarely had teams contest them because their opponents had a hard time matching up with their center Jared Adamson.

▶ The Freshman team lost three talented players to J.V., but still had enough depth to have a successful season of their own.

has rebuilding year

"We all played hard and gave the season our best shot. I think that in itself is enough to be proud of."

-Katie Stockwell '01

► "Can't stop in our tracks" was the theme for the varsity volleyball team. The girls used this theme to inspire them to both play and practice as powerfully as trains.

► This team faced many challenges and a rebuilding year of sorts as there was only one senior and two juniors. As a result, several underclassmen played key roles at the varsity level.

JV improves by BLOCKING the volleyball

"The hardest tournament was the St. Clair Invitational because everyone was looking for us to beat all the competitors. There was a lot of pressure to do our best and we did just that, our very best."

-Beth Szymanski '01

- ▶ A miracle on the team was when the Saints' were losing 14-3 and then pulled together to win the match.
- ▶ The team has a running cheer where for the first match they say: 1, 2, 3, 4, bump, set, spike! For the second match they yell: Saints' kick butt!
- ▶ The girls showed their team spirit by cheering and encouraging their team mates on during matches.

CHEERING FOR POINTS...

Emily Stockwell, Beth Szymanski and Patrice Seibel do a little dance and cheer after regaining possession of the ball. This now gave them the chance to gain some more points.

-Michele Meyers '02

- ▶ As a majority, most girls have been playing volleyball for only one to two years.
- ▶ For one really hard practice the freshman had to run seven crushers, two hundred push-ups and three hundred sit-ups.
- ▶ The team stays close after the games by going out to dinner at McDonalds after practices.
- ▶ One memorable game was when the team pulled off a victorious upset against Ford II to end a six game losing streak.

picture perfect...

In preparation for a Saturday competition, the cheerleaders perform Round One at half time of a basketball game.

The athletic season of '98-'99 seemed to have some kind of contagious virus going around. As the teams were winning more games the breakout continued ... spirit was catching on.

The biggest fan support came from the stands, "The fans were just as important as the ones on the bench and gave us at least 6-8 points a game." Mr. Monte, varsity basketball coach said this about the return of the pit. The fans grouped together and brought back the title "Super Saint." The Super Saints were headed up by A.J. Wroblewski in the stands and packed into every home game at most of the away games.

As the season continued many games were filled up due to the outstanding fan support selling out against two cross town rivals, Marine City and Marysville. As the varsity basketball team made it's way through districts, A.J brought out the trash can from the old group of "Super Saints" from the '93 season. When the can was opened the crowd would yell, yet when closed the crowd went silent. A.J. stated "I wanted St. Clair an edge over the other team"

As the varsity basketball team kept moving closer to regionals the signs in the hall ways kept coming up. Phrases like "A lot of unhappy Vikings" and "Yes, We are Ready for Battle!!" were posted all around the school. It was obvious that the school spirit was in total out break at SCHS.

"I think that we are a very solid team and we will be tough in the districts."

-Jarod Thorne '99

"You can do whatever you put your mind to."

-Matt Coulthard '00

"We are better this year than any other year since I've been here. Our pitching is very good, and hopefully we do well in districts."

-Nate Biringer '99

perfect pitch...

Junior Josh Herrick releases the ball hoping to record yet another strike out.

From top left: Coach Beedon, J. Thorne, M. Distelrath, N. Biringer, S. Ingram, B. Psciuk, P. Morgan, M. Karas, Coach Mallawitz, J. Herrick, R. Hamilton, B. Rettig, M. Sell, Coach White, M. Coulthard, S. Aimes, T.J. Brinker, J. Gomola, T. Runge, J. Sanchez

Pitching their way to victory

has a winning season

"This is the best baseball team I've been on by far. We have great talent and enjoy playing the game."
-Brian Pscink '00

- ▶ The team finished with a record of 17-7, and finished third in the MAC gold division.
- ▶ One of the team's highlights was beating Marysville at home because of Marysville's top ranking.
- ▶ The team relied on excellent pitching from Scott Ingram and Nate Biringer.

Batter up...

Senior Bob Rettig focuses on the line drive that he has just hit to see where it lands.

GIVING SIGNS...

Giving the sign from behind the plate, junior Matt Karas shows his leadership as he tells the rest of his team how many outs there are.

stealing second...

Senior Nate Biringer concentrates on the catcher as he inches toward second base.

After making the tag on an Algonac base runner, junior

Rob Hamilton realizes that he has lost the ball and the runner is safe.

Teamwork makes

THE DIAMOND

fun & family for J.V.

"The game that stands out the most is the one against Port Huron because most of our teammates were injured."

-Melissa Woodman '01

► The team had a true team unity throughout the season. "Every time we stepped on the field we became a family." Commented team captain Jackie Sargent, "This really helped us play our best."

► The team entered the season with a variety of skill levels which consisted of juniors, sophomores and freshman.

PlayBall...

Ready for the catch and an out is junior Jackie Sargent. Team members agreed that she helped to keep the team together and make the season fun.

the pitch...

Sophomore pitcher Karen Fajardo loves pitching because the entire team relies on her.

help season victories

"I chose to be on the team because I love to play baseball and all the great people we have on the team"

-Josh Tebeau '02

► Each time a player is at bat, they dream of a homerun. Matt Mihelic fulfilled his dream with three homeruns.

► To get ready, the team had practices up to three hours long. Yet when it came to game time the team prepared for games by stretching out and making jokes together. Team members agreed it helped them stay unified.

Looking home...
 Sophomore Matt Mihelic rounds the base for the Saints after a hit by Brandon Walker.

Education Is One Of The Few Investments That Always Appreciates In Value.

With every tough math problem, every long history lesson, every nail-biting exam, a young person's mind can't help but grow. And grow. So it is with great pleasure that we congratulate all those involved in the pursuit of quality education. It's the kind of investment that will always yield a handsome return.

The Value of a Smile

It costs nothing, but creates much.

It enriches those who receive without impoverishing those who give.

It happens in a flash, and the memory of it sometimes lasts forever.

None are so rich they can get along without it, and none so poor but are richer for its benefits.

It creates happiness in the home, fosters goodwill in a business, and is the countersign of friends.

It is rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad, and nature's best antidote for trouble.

Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is no earthly good to anyone until it is given away.

GRABBIN' a Bite...

Matt Distelrath (eating his pizza backwards, as usual) and Sarah Armstrong enjoy their lunch. These "first lunchers" were more fortunate than those who were jammed into the cafeteria for the crowded second lunch hour.

COURTSIDE BABES...

The newly-organized JV tennis team, coached by Mr. Diller, gathered during one of their home meets for a picture. Though the team was inconvenienced by the re-paving this fall, the new courts were eventually made for an enjoyable season.

SCUBA gear...

Freshman Jesse Arnold prepares for an exploratory dive in the pool.

"So make the best of this test and don't ask why."

That's Life

"It's something unpredictable, but in the end..."

Near the completion of the first dance of the year when Green Day was playing, I'm sure few people stopped to think "Hey, this would make a really good theme for our yearbook." A few weeks earlier, however, the yearbook staff was in the process of discovering that very thought.

For the first time in a long time, possibly ever, this year's staff had the benefit of textbooks, the experience of past members, and an organized, structured team. The time commitment for this organization continues to be enormous, but failed to be taken to the midnight extreme this year.

Not to say that the year breezed by without incident, quite the opposite. New staff members had to learn the ins and outs of picas, points, and printers, the technology man came in one day and removed a hard drive with the index on it, and two of our four computers are nearing their Y2K explosion date, but hey, that's life.

The yearbook has been my life for three years and while some people don't, and never will, understand, "for what it's worth it was worth all the while." I speak for everyone on the staff when I say "I hope you had the time of your life."

Bill

GROOVIN' TUNES...

Matt Trombley, participating in the Battle of the Bands, really gets into his music. Unfortunately for Matt, Vic's Angels were the victors according to crowd applause.

SWEET REVENGE...

Raising money for Oklahoma tornado victims, Mr. Rutledge allows second lunch students to duct tape him to a pole in the cafeteria.

JUNGLE BOOGIE...

WaaaaHHHH!

"Oooh, I'm sparking!" exclaimed Laine Fraley during an experiment in Mrs. Cedar's class. Fraley could've used a can or two of static guard on this day.

evidence...

Proving that no one is safe from yearbook photographers, TJ Pavlov is caught breaking into his sister's locker one afternoon in the senior hallway.

get the mop...

A water battle ensues in the cafeteria between Armen Hratchian and Brant Herzer on the last day of high school for the seniors.

fans get DOWN...

Celebrating another victorious home game, St. Clair basketball fans fill the cafeteria with their spirit and the stage with their YMCA moves.

for the BIRDS...

St. Clair is not only a great community for humans to reside in but it has very nice street lamps on river road to hold the seagulls, as pictured below.

TAKE NOTE...

Thank you to Miss Jones for providing her guidance, patience, persistence, and so much more to this book and the entire school, and for making sure everything was lined up.

To Jen Schulte who always made sure we didn't have to sell our cars at the end of the year to pay for the book.

Mrs. Karen Psciuk to whom we owe our lives for her excellent photography skills and involvement.

The janitorial staff for having a master key to the building.

The entire yearbook staff for their endless efforts to produce a quality publication.

The staff of St. Clair High for allowing photos and surveys into their classrooms.

Whoever is reading this right now... thanks for taking a chance on buying a $50 book before we even knew what the cover was going to look like.

Thank you for all the great pictures Mrs. Psciuk!

"We hope you've had the time of your life..."
